

First off you don't give a listing for probably one of the most important public issues in a long time and that is cell phone use on airplanes. To allow their open use on an airline has got to be one of the dumbest and most irresponsible ideas you could have. I'm sure you are being innundated with objections to this insane idea, at least I hope we haven't gone that far backward that most responsible people would go for this. You would be probably be looking at people flying less and certainly a lot of unpleasant confrontations between passengers! Get some professional help for those who advocate this but for God's sake don't do it. Sincerely yours, Ned Mueller
